

Making an Art Of Recycling

The Middletown Commission on the Arts and the Middletown Recycling Commission

Request the pleasure of your company Saturday, October 15, 2011 at 10am on Middletown's South Green

At a ceremony marking the installations of Main Street Recycling Bins

Featuring artwork
designed and painted
by local artist,
Pierre Sylvain.

Pierre Sylvain has lived in Middletown for twenty years. A self-taught painter who began making art as a young child, he works in joyous, vibrant colors and sculpted forms reminiscent of his native Haiti, where creative reuse of found materials is second nature. His paintings can be seen on permanent display at the Imperial Caribbean Restaurant in Cromwell and Fiore II on Middletown's Main Street. He recently had an opening at the Gallore Gallery on Washington Street, which currently represents his work.

